The Sounds of Ôrëños

Each of the basic sounds of the Ôrëños language are listed below, using the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA) transcription system. To hear these sounds pronounced in a standardized format, you can find an interactive IPA chart here: <http://www.ipachart.com/> (last visited February 15, 2023). Aspirants are pronounced in a lower or softer tone of voice than unaspirated consonants and vowels. The Ôrëños consonant inventory consists of 26 sounds, while the vowel inventory consists of 14 basic vowels with some additional pronunciations.

- O: /ɑ/ This sound is similar to the <o> in the English word ‘sock’ or ‘bottle’. When /ɔ/ is the first or last sound in a word, or when it is immediately followed by /s/, it is instead pronounced as [o], which is similar to the <oe> in the English word ‘toe’ or the <o> in ‘so’.
- Ô: /ɔ/ This sound is found in some dialects of English, such as those in New England; it is similar to the <o> in the English word ‘or’ or ‘bore’, or the <aw> in the English word ‘paw’ or ‘sawn’.
- L: /l/ This sound is similar to the <l> in the English words ‘like’ or ‘lab’, or the <ll> English words ‘well’ or ‘hill’, which have slightly different articulations in English (the <ll> examples being produced further back in the mouth than the <l> examples), but that is not an important distinction in this language.
- H: /h/ This sound is similar to the <h> in the English word ‘hotel’ or ‘inhabit’.
- P: /p/ The sound /p/ is similar to the  in the English word ‘applause’ or ‘ship’.
- B: /b/ The sound /b/ is similar to the  in the English word ‘base’ or ‘table’.
- Ř: /r<sup>h</sup>/ The sound /r<sup>h</sup>/ is not found in English, but is similar to the /r/ above except that it is followed by an extra burst of air. Some speakers realize this sound as an [ɹ], described below, with an additional burst of air—similar to a quiet or whispered <r> in words like ‘red’ or ‘round’.
- Ř: /ɹ/ The sound /ɹ/ is rolled as found in the Scottish dialect of English or in Spanish.
- R: /ɹ/ This is the typical <r> produced by English speakers in a word like ‘red’ or ‘rust’. At the end of a word, /ɹ/ is occasionally found in English when <r> functions like the head of a syllable, such as the <er> in 'butter' or 'earth'. It is produced the same as /ɪ/, but is slightly louder and longer than /ɪ/.

- Ü: /ju/ This sound is similar to the <ue> in the English word 'fuel' or 'fuse'.
- Ū: /u/ This sound is similar to the <oo> in the English word 'boot' or 'loop'.
- U: /ʌ/ This sound is similar to the  in the English word 'but' or 'cut'.
- Ę: /ɛ<sup>h</sup>/ This sound is not typically found in English; it is produced the same as the /ɛ/ vowel, but the sound drops off halfway through as if the second half of the vowel is replaced by an /h/.
- Ê: /e<sup>h</sup>/ This sound is not typically found in English; it is produced the same as the /e/ vowel, but the sound drops off halfway through as if the second half of the vowel is replaced by an /h/.
- Ĕ: /i/ This sound is similar to the <ee> in the English word 'sheet' or 'feet'.
- E: /ɛ/ This sound is similar to the <e> in the English word 'bed' or 'temp'.
- K: /k/ The sound /k/ is similar to the <k> in the English word 'sketch' or 'bleak'.
- Ń: /n<sup>h</sup>/ The sound /n<sup>h</sup>/ is not typically found in English; it is produced in the same manner as /n/ but with an extra burst of air following the consonant, similar to how you might produce a sequence like <nh>.
- N: /n/ The sound /n/ is similar to the <n> in the English word 'no' or 'sun'.
- M: /m/ The sound /m/ is similar to the <m> in the English word 'make' or 'sum'.
- Y: /j/ This sound is similar to the <y> in the English word 'yellow' or 'yes' and is sometimes combined with the /u/ vowel and written as a single letter (<ü>), which has the sound of the English word 'you' rather than <oo> as in 'boot'.
- Ä: [a<sup>h</sup>] When /a/ is the last sound in a word, it is instead pronounced as [a<sup>h</sup>], which is similar to the  in father, but, like other aspirated vowels in the language, the sound drops off halfway through as if the second half of the vowel is replaced by an /h/.
- Ā: /e/ This sound is similar to the <ay> in the English word 'say' or 'bay'.
- A: /ʌ/ This sound is similar to the  in the English word 'but' or 'cut'. It appears whenever  begins or ends a word. /æ/ This sound is similar to the  in the English word 'bat' or 'catch'. It appears whenever an unaccented  appears within a word.
- F: /f/ This sound is similar to the <f> in the English word 'full' or 'wolf'.

- TH: /θ/ This sound is similar to the <th> in the English word ‘think’ or ‘bath’.
- CH: /tʃ/ This sound is similar to the <ch> in the English word ‘church’.
- T: /t/ The sound /t/ is similar to the <t> in the English word ‘bat’ or ‘step’.
- Ī: /i<sup>h</sup>/ This sound is not typically found in English; it is produced the same as the /i/ vowel, but the sound drops off halfway through as if the second half of the vowel is replaced by an /h/.
- Î: /ɪ<sup>h</sup>/ This sound is not typically found in English; it is produced the same as the /ɪ/ vowel, but the sound drops off halfway through as if the second half of the vowel is replaced by an /h/.
- Ī: /aɪ/ This sound is similar to the  in the English word ‘abide’ or ‘ride’.
- I: /i/ This sound is similar to the  in the English word ‘ship’ or ‘ninja’.
- DH: /ð/ This sound is similar to the <th> in the English word ‘this’ or ‘bathe’.
- J: /dʒ/ This sound is similar to the <j> and the <dge> in the English word ‘judge’.
- D: /d/ The sound /d/ is similar to the <d> in the English word ‘bad’ or ‘deep’.
- Z: /z/ The sound /z/ is similar to the <z> in the English word ‘zed’ or ‘zip’.
- V: /v/ This sound is similar to the <v> in the English word ‘very’ or ‘glaive’.
- G: /g/ The sound /g/ is similar to the <g> in the English word ‘give’ or ‘tag’.
- Ś: /ʃ/ This sound is similar to the <sh> in the English word ‘ship’ or ‘dish’.
- Ş: /s<sup>h</sup>/ This sound is not typically found in English; it is produced in the same manner as /s/ but is followed by an extra burst of air similar to the /n<sup>h</sup>/ and the /r<sup>h</sup>/ described above.
- S: /s/ This sound is similar to the <s> in the English word ‘sky’ or ‘bliss’.
